About Town

And Country

By TIMOTHEUS T.

WEATHER CONDITIONS got drier and drier on Oct. 24, the year 1952, Shawnee National Forest Supervisor E. N. Lee said the danger of fire was the worst in the history of the forest.

"Everything is tinder dry," he said. "I urge the utmost precaution by all those in the area." The same story said that during the two previous days, a total of 832 acres of land in the forest area had burned over, and that fence wires were cut just in time to save 30 head of Hereford cattle on private pasture.

A Daily Register story of Oct. 27 said that 1,800 acres had burned over in the previous week and a separate story in the same issue said a grass fire had destroyed a railroad bridge west of Harrisburg, halting the taking of empties to Sahara 5, 6 and 7 and Blue Bird 7 and 8.

Then on Oct. 28 a United Press story said that the damage across the state from grass and forest fires had been estimated at one million dollars and the fires continued.

On Oct. 29 there was a lull, with the headline declaring "Fire Situation Eases in Area." The period did not last long. Because the Register story of Oct. 31 said the area again had been hit by forest and grass fires with the biggest fire yet raging west of Murphysboro with at least 5,000 acres burned.

There were field fires all around Harrisburg and they moved into Dorris Heights. Scores of persons and the Harrisburg fire department battled the blazes. Buildings, fences and utility poles burned and there were some narrow escapes by persons.

The fire department saved the house, barn and power and telephone poles and lines at the J. D. Barter farm west of Harrisburg. The barn was catching fire when the firemen arrived. It also fought a grass blaze to keep it away from the pumping station and sewage disposal plant east of town.

Named Honorary Members of Staff Of Harrisburg Medical Foundation

In recognition of their long services to the people of this area, Dr. R. B. Nyberg, Dr. Jos. C. Lightner and Dr. G. B. Hart were named honorary members of the Harrisburg Medical Foundation staff Thursday evening.

The occasion was a special meeting of the staff of the Foundation which operates the Lightner hospital in Harrisburg. Dr. Hart was out of the city but Dr. Nyberg and Dr. Lightner were in attendance at the dinner meeting at Schriener's cafe.

For the occasion, Dr. Harry

Southwick of the University of Illinois, the Illinois Research Hospital and the Presbyterian Hospital, Chicago, was the guest speaker.

Dr. Southwick made comment on the fact that the Lightner hospital recently was given full accreditation by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals. He said this accreditation could have been earned only through most diligent attention to requirements of a modern hospital.

He complimented Dr. W. D. Tuttle, president of the Foundation, the medical and nursing staff, the business administration and all responsible for the hospital's operation.

Guests at the dinner included physicians and surgeons who comprise the medical staff members of the Foundation board of trustees and board of directors.

Father, Child Die in Flames

CARPENTERSVILLE, Ill. — A father and his 3-year-old daughter were killed and three other children injured when flames ravaged their frame house as they slept early today.

James Kolvek, 28, and his daughter, Linda, were found dead in their bedroom. They apparently suffocated.

The other children, Stephan, 6, Janice, 4 and Michael, 2, were taken to an Elgin, Ill., hospital. Doctors said their condition was satisfactory.

Kolvek was found by rescuers stretched out on the floor by his bed, with the family's pet dog dead beside him.

Kolvek's wife, Mary, was away visiting relatives when the accident occurred.

Neighbors first spotted smoke pouring from the house in the new subdivision of Meadowville here. They summoned firemen, who broke through the door in time to rescue the youngsters, all of whom were unconscious.

The fire department saved the house, barn and power and telephone poles and lines at the J. D. Barter farm west of Harrisburg. The barn was catching fire when the firemen arrived. It also fought a grass blaze to keep it away from the pumping station and sewage disposal plant east of town.

Polish Workers Stage Sitdown Strikes to Support New Policy

Stevenson Chides President, Dulles As Untruthful

Candidate Spells Out Foreign Policy Case Against GOP

CINCINNATI (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson today chided President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles as derelict and untruthful in their conduct of foreign affairs, particularly in the Suez Canal crisis.

The Democratic presidential candidate waited for a long time to go after the administration on the Suez and explained to a highly responsive audience of about 4,000 people here Friday night that he did so only because Mr. Eisenhower, himself, introduced the subject into the campaign "in a highly misleading way."

The Democratic candidate spelled out his foreign policy case against the Republicans in detail, bluntly blaming the President and his secretary of state for "misleading" the American public on the general foreign situation and the Suez in particular.

Happenings in Orient

He said Dulles described "every defeat as a victory and every setback as a triumph," while Korea was still divided by an "uneasy armistice," the richest half of Indochina had the new Communist satellite and "Communism and neutralism" were making great gains in Ceylon, Burma and Indonesia.

He said America's relations with Britain and France were growing increasingly fragile, the idea of the European defense community had collapsed and the United States has been "of no help whatever" in settling the Cyprus dispute.

Yet, Stevenson said, the administration and particularly the President said "All is well." He said the President in the Northwest this week "sought to make political capital" of the Suez situation, "a crisis that could engulf the world."

State to Survey Lake Sites in Saline County

Engineers Will Be in Area Soon, Sen. Jones Advised

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—Surveys of several prospective lake sites in Saline county were authorized today by Gov. William G. Stratton, along with similar surveys of sites in Massac, Pope and Hardin counties, according to Director of Conservation Glen D. Palmer.

Palmer told Sen. Glen Jones of Raleigh, chairman of the Illinois Water Resources Commission here yesterday that Department engineers would be in the area immediately to look over a number of sites, including Spring Valley creek, Battle Ford creek, the Middle Fork of the Saline river, Eagle creek and Brushy creek.

Battle Ford site was included in a survey made by the Department in 1947, but no work was ever completed on the proposed project when the lakes program was abandoned in 1949 for lack of funds.

Engineers will inspect the proposed sites, looking for the most favorable terrain, accessibility, watershed potentials and geological conditions. Recommendations will be made back to the Department for further study and use in plans for actual development.

Director Palmer told Senator Jones that Governor Stratton is particularly concerned with the water and recreation situation in the southern part of the state, and has expressed a desire for restoration of water in this area in as many counties as is possible.

While Department lakes of the type under consideration in the four counties are primarily conservation impoundments, they also serve as water storage reservoirs for emergency use in time of severe drought.

McKeon Finishes His Sentence

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C. — Matthew C. McKeon, the former drill sergeant who led six Marine recruits to their deaths by drowning on a night march, finished serving his sentence for negligent homicide today and it was learned he will be transferred to Cherry Point, N. C.

The 31-year-old Marine from Worcester, Mass., stepped from the brig at 8:30 a. m., as a private. He was reduced from staff sergeant as a part of his sentence for the training mishap.

McKeon, when his stiffer sentence of a bad conduct discharge was reduced earlier this month by Secretary of the Navy Charles S. Thomas, said he was going to try to be the "best private in the Marine Corps."

The punishment grew out of an unauthorized night disciplinary march in which McKeon led his platoon into treacherous Ribbon Creek with the result that 6 of the 74 trainees drowned.

Eisenhower to Draft Reply to New Note from Soviet Premier Bulganin

LOS ANGELES (AP)—President Eisenhower took sharp issue with Adlai Stevenson Friday night for advocating the abandonment of the draft and H-bomb tests and then headed for Washington today to draft a reply to a new proposal from Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin.

The text of the latest message from the Soviet premier, received in Washington Friday, remained secret until the President can study it. He was expected to draft an answer to it Sunday.

There was speculation it dealt with disarmament, including the question of banning further hydrogen bomb tests. Mr. Eisenhower has said repeatedly, such a ban can be ordered only after an agreement for international inspection of nuclear stockpiles has been reached.

Earlier Bulganin Proposal

Such a ban was proposed by Bulganin in his last previous message to the President, who countered by referring to his proposal for "open skies" aerial inspection made at the Geneva Conference. Stevenson since has made a campaign issue of both the draft and the H-bomb testing by declaring they ought to be junked by an international pact.

The President, in a bare-knuckles televised political speech

Friday night in Hollywood Bowl, took off his glasses, narrowed his lips and departed from his prepared text to declare, without identifying his Democratic opponent by name:

"The man who today dismisses our military draft as an 'incredible waste' is a man who, while I do not question his sincerity, is speaking from incredible folly or incredible ignorance of war or the causes of war."

Mr. Eisenhower roused applause from the standing-room-only crowd of 22,000 in Hollywood Bowl when he expanded on his theme: "We cannot risk our security on those who time and time again broke the peace of the world. Until the Communists are ready to agree on inspection we shall seek these goals of peace by staying strong and growing stronger."

Mr. Eisenhower, suffering an inflamed eye caused by a couple of pieces of tiny confetti getting stuck under his left eyelid, scheduled a brief stopover in Denver, Colo., at noon today to pick up Mrs. Elvira Doud, Mrs. Eisenhower's mother, and round out his five-day campaign swing through western states by making a brief speech.

He covered principal cities in Minnesota, Washington, Oregon and California before dropping down in Colorado.

Fear Herrin Toll to Rise

Seven Already Dead in Gas Blast; Life is Ebbing for Three Others

HERRIN, Ill. — Doctors feared today that a propane gas explosion, which took seven lives may claim three more victims before the day is over.

Three children and two couples died from burns when the explosion ignited a sheet of flames which swept through a residential neighborhood as they sat or played on their front lawns.

Two sisters, Sharon Jarvis, 10, and Susan, 8, were near death throughout the night at Herrin Hospital, where doctors watched helplessly as life ebbed from their charred bodies. They also doubted that 20-year-old Carl Kerly would survive.

Hope was offered for a 7-month-old boy, who was apparently out of danger. Two other women also had a chance to live, doctors said.

Those dead were Oscar Williams, 38, and his wife, Violet, 33; their son, Fred, 3; Mrs. Williams' parents, Fred, 62, and Elizabeth Kerley, 63; Charlotte Jarvis, 11 and Robert Lee Keller, 5.

The disaster originated from a leaky valve on a truck full of heavy propane gas, which Louis Scheffler, 50, was unloading into 100-gallon cylinders.

Khrushchev Issues Warning In Blitz Visit

Paris Reports Russia Sending Tanks, Troops to Warsaw

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—Polish workers staged sitdown strikes today to demonstrate their support for liberalization policies which Moscow's Nikita Khrushchev opposed during a blitz visit to Warsaw.

The strikes occurred in several factories shortly after Khrushchev and a top-level Soviet delegation flew home from a secret conference here.

Between 15,000 and 20,000 workers at the big Zeran automobile works in the Warsaw suburbs staged a sitdown strike as a sign of solidarity for rehabilitated "liberal" Communist leader Wladislaw Gomulka.

"Manifestations" were reported at "many" other factories.

In Paris, the newspaper Le Monde reported that 800 Russian tanks and "important" troop concentrations from Red Germany had crossed the border into Poland and were converging on Warsaw.

But there was general indignation against the visit by Khrushchev and his high-powered delegation which included former Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, and two deputy premiers.

Professional people and workers considered it tactless of the Russians to arrive in the midst of the crucial meetings of the Polish Central Committee.

Attack Polish Press

The Soviet Communist Party newspaper Pravda today launched a bitter attack on sections of the Polish press which it said is carrying on a widespread anti-Communist campaign that is "shaking the very foundations" of the Communist Polish regime.

The Swedish newspaper Expressen reported that Khrushchev "lost control of himself" during a meeting with representatives of the Polish Politburo.

Expressen's correspondent, Derrick M. Winter, who "broke" the story of Khrushchev's emergency trip to Warsaw, quoted Khrushchev as telling the Polish leaders "I am going to show you what the road to socialism looks like. If you don't obey, we will crush with force any attempt to revolt."

During meetings which ran late into the night, Khrushchev opposed Gomulka's rise to power, according to authoritative sources.

Khrushchev's unexpected arrival here Friday delayed the nominations for membership in the politburo. The election is now expected Sunday night or Monday. There was no indication whether the slate of nominees had been changed as a result of the sudden visit by the top Soviet Communist.

Khrushchev and his cohorts flew back to Moscow early this morning.

"I am going to show you what the road to socialism looks like!" Winter quoted Khrushchev as saying. "If you don't obey, we will crush with force any attempt to revolt."

At the Politburo meeting, Winter said, Khrushchev refused to shake hands with Wladislaw Gomulka, the Communist leader purged eight years ago for Titoism who Friday reemerged as "Poland's strong man."

The restoration of Gomulka is believed to be the reason for Khrushchev's dramatic dash to Red Warsaw Friday. Soviet Defense Minister G. K. Zhukov also has been reported in Poland.

One Point of Agreement

Editorial — BY BRUCE BLOSSAT

The Democratic effort to bring President Eisenhower down into the political arena makes the 1956 campaign one of the most tantalizing in recent memory.

The Democrats evidently are convinced that victory for them depends on inking the President closely with the Republican party, so that voters drawn to him as a "man above party" will in fact be forced into a choice between the two major parties.

In the Democrats' view, Mr. Eisenhower's decision to engage them in a slugging match largely accomplishes their purpose of "pulling him off his pedestal." They believe they will be the principal beneficiaries of this new turn in the 1956 race.

Yet they themselves know there is a calculated risk in this, and that's what introduces the tantalizing element. For the Republican strategists believe that every time Mr. Eisenhower shows himself on the campaign trail he makes far more votes than he loses.

Whether this is actually so, no one can be sure. But the GOP takes strong encouragement from the usually large and enthusiastic turnout which greets the President wherever he appears. His way with people in crowds is easy and natural, and both he and his viewers seem to enjoy the experience.

The question always is: "Do crowds translate into votes? Do they come to see him because they want him to win, or because he's President?"

As indicated, the answer isn't clear. But his popularity proved out at the polls in 1952, and the possibility has to be entertained that it may do so again.

That is the risk for the Democrats in the grand strategy they have conceived. According to all reports, they can see no other path to victory. But this very course could, it would seem, lead to demonstrations of the Eisenhower magic which might more than counteract all the benefits the Democrats hope to obtain.

Both sides want Mr. Eisenhower out battling. Seldom do the two parties so thoroughly agree on the tactics they'd like to see a candidate pursue. On Nov. 7 the country will learn which group of strategists, Democratic or Republican, has it sized up correctly.

Editors Expect Ike to Triumph, Poll Discloses

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON —(NEA)— President Eisenhower will be re-elected for a second term—but the Democrats will win control of both the U. S. Senate and House of Representatives in the Nov. 6 election.

These are the opinions of a nearly two-thirds majority in a poll conducted by the writer among the 700 NEA Service client newspaper editors receiving this column in the United States.

The overwhelming opinion that the Democrats would retain control of Congress in spite of an Eisenhower victory was the most surprising trend revealed by the poll. Four years ago, in a similar poll, a two-thirds majority of the editors correctly predicted the election of Eisenhower and a Republican-controlled House and Senate.

This year's reversal of form on the congressional outlook may point to a major factor of uncertainty on the 1956 results.

Twenty-eight per cent of the editors replying refused to hazard a guess on the congressional outcome. But of those who did make an estimate, 76 per cent think the Democrats will win the Senate. A whopping 89 per cent think the Democrats will win the House.

This opinion is strongest in the South and West. It is supported by a little more than half the editors in the East, but by less than half of those in the Midwest.

THE CONGRESSIONAL race prediction is made in spite of the fact that editorial support being given President Eisenhower and Gov. Adlai Stevenson has changed by only five per cent from what it was four years ago.

This year 62 per cent of the editors say their papers are supporting Eisenhower. In 1952 it was 68 per cent. Stevenson's support is up two points, from 19 per cent in 1952 to 21 per cent this year.

Fourteen per cent of the editors say they are supporting neither candidate in this campaign. This is a two per cent increase over 1952. This neutrality comes principally from editors in cities having only one newspaper. They try to maintain political independence and give both parties equal treatment.

Editors changing their political support this year did so in several directions. Forty-seven per cent of those changing positions reported a switch from Eisenhower in 1952 to neutral in 1956. Twenty-six per cent reported switches to support Stevenson. Only one paper reported switching from Stevenson support in 1952 to support Ike in 1956.

TWENTY PER CENT of the papers changing positions this year have switched from the old parties to support T. Coleman Andrews and Thomas H. Werdel, the National States Rights Conference candidates for president and vice president.

When this poll closed for tabulation Oct. 10, four per cent of the editors reported their papers had not yet taken a position, but would do so before the election.

Editors replying to the poll are generally agreed that President Eisenhower will not win this time by as large an electoral vote as he won in 1952. His count then was 442 to 89 for Gov. Stevenson.

This time 47 per cent of the editors making an estimate say they think Ike will get between 300 and 400 electoral votes. This is the prevailing opinion. But 28 per cent think Ike will get over 400 and nine per cent think he will do even better than he did four years ago.

The popular opinion that the election will be close is not shared by many editors. Only seven per cent of the editors seem to think Ike will win with under 300 votes—less than a 35-vote margin over the 266 needed to win.

OF THE 19 PER CENT of the editors who think Stevenson will win, 15 per cent think it will be by a margin of 100 electoral votes over Eisenhower's total, or less. But three per cent think Stevenson will win by from 100 to 200 and one per cent think Stevenson will win by a landslide, reversing the Eisenhower sweep of four years ago.

The average margin of victory predicted by editors thinking Stevenson will win is 65 electoral votes—that is, 293 to 238. Estimates on the popular vote are proportional to the electoral vote predictions. In 1952 Eisenhower got nearly 34 million to Stevenson's 27 million—a seven-million plurality. Only five per cent of the editors think he will do well this year.

On the other side, estimates of the Stevenson plurality—if he wins—run from a bare half million to a whopping 10 million. Stevenson partisans' average prediction is that his plurality will be a little under four million.

Drought Creates Extreme Fire Hazards in State

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Drought conditions all over Illinois have created extreme fire hazards particularly in wooded areas, and today Director Glen D. Palmer of the state Department of Conservation asked everyone to join in a program of careful control of fire in every form.

"The whole state is dry," Palmer declared. "Even the bottomlands have dried out. It is serious and we've been lucky so far. A few careless smokers, campers or picnickers could erupt a third of the state in a disastrous blaze."

The Division of Forestry has moved all of its foresters off their regular jobs and put them on 24-hour fire duty, including week ends. State parks personnel have been alerted and some sections of several parks have been closed to public use.

Director Palmer urged farmers to avoid burning brush during the drought, and asked campers and picnic parties in the parks to confine their fires to regular stoves.

"Above all, make sure the fire is out before you leave," Palmer warned.

Beautiful fall weather and the blaze of glory of the foliage has been attracting increasing throngs of visitors to parks and forested areas the last two weeks. This increase has boosted fire danger. Park custodians were advised to block off certain sections of White Pines Forest, Starved Rock, Mississippi Palisades, Pere Marquette and Giant City state parks.

Saline county voters are not voting a new tax for Tuberculosis. They are voting for the continuation of this tax which gives all residents in the county protection against tuberculosis.

Almost one-half the 10,000,000 square miles of forests in the world are inaccessible, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Construction Worker Axes Foreman

CHAMPAIGN — A construction worker went berserk on a grain elevator project early today and savagely axed a foreman before other workmen could disarm him.

The foreman John Suthers, 36, Bement, was brought to Burnham Hospital here in critical condition with deep gashes on his head and back. The incident occurred at the construction site near Sadorus, southwest of here.

Authorities identified the workman as Frank Butler, 25, a transient worker hired two days ago, who has been staying at Decatur for several days. They were unable to determine his home town, but believe he came from Missouri.

'Let's Finish the Job,' Will Be Polio Drive Slogan

"Let's Finish the Job" will be the battle cry of the 1957 March of Dimes this January, it was reported today by R. S. (Stopper) Adams, Harrisburg Polio chairman, on his return from a regional conference of March of Dimes leaders in Chicago.

"There is still a tremendous job ahead before polio can really be counted out," Adams said, and pointed out that the polio-fighting organization would seek $46,900,000 for its program in 1957.

He met with a group of National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis officials headed by Joseph F. Nee, national fund raising director, along with 40 other volunteer leaders in from a five-state area.

"The advent of the March of Dimes-sponsored Salk vaccine has led a great many people to believe that polio is just about licked," Adams said. "But actually many millions of people in susceptible age groups are not yet vaccinated and there are many thousands stricken by polio for whom a vaccine comes too late. Much work remains for the March of Dimes if the victory over a virus is to be translated into victory over a disease."

Part of the money raised in the 1957 March of Dimes will be earmarked for a program of assistance for those families who cannot afford vaccination. Also, as the threat of polio epidemics is reduced, the emphasis in the polio fight will shift from saving lives to making the lives of those saved worth living, the March of Dimes leader said.

Announce Plans For Conservation Lake Near Rosiclare

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Plans for a new conservation lake in Hardin county, on Threemile creek west of Rosiclare, were announced here today by Director Glen D. Palmer of the Department of Conservation.

Director Palmer told State Rep. Gordon E. Kerr of Brookport that Governor William G. Stratton has authorized the department to begin preliminary engineering surveys of the site. He said that the data to be obtained will provide a basis of cost of the project for the budgetary request for the next biennium.

Preliminary inspection of the site, which has long been sought for a lake in Hardin county, was made by department engineers more than a year ago. Director Palmer said this report indicated a lake of approximately 165 acres could be constructed within a park of 400 to 500 acres.

The proposed site is conveniently available to Route 146 and in an area in great need of additional recreational facilities, Palmer declared. He added that Governor Stratton has expressed a desire for additional development in this part of southern Illinois and was anxious for the department to speed up the engineering surveys.

"Fossil" Birds?

Penguins are descended from ancient birds that had normal flying wings. They belong to a family of which most members have died out and now are known only as fossils. Seventeen species still exist.

HEMMED IN—Sewing classes are so large this fall at Southern Illinois University that some students must do their stitching in a busy corridor. Although existing facilities are overloaded, home economics enrollment continues to increase at SIU, where more than 600 resident students are attending classes. A new, modern structure has been proposed for the department, which presently is confined to a portion of the basement of the University's Old Main building. (SIU News Photo)

Ward Bydgos called to Burke. "Hey, Ed. There's a priority call for us from Zone."

Burke ran to the police car, listened with Bydgos to the message crackling over the speaker.

"Burke, this is Antonelli. We've got a report from Welfare that an assembly area in Zone 3 has gone wild. More than a thousand people have panicked and are heading for open country. They'll be heading out along Highway 22, which means you'll be seeing them before long. Radiation scare set them off."

"ACP has just notified us that a large medical convoy is coming through them, and will be headed into the city on 22. They've got six trucks loaded with fresh food, plus two busloads of medical people. ACP Four doesn't have any police escort available, so you'll have to pick them up. You're to stay with the convoy all the way thru to Roosevelt Medical Center. We'll try to have some more cars meet you on the way."

"That convoy can't be delayed. We need the blood too bad. Bring them through no matter what."

"Okay," Burke answered, "we'll be on the lookout for them. That's all."

He flipped off the switch. Bydgos looked at him. "This oughta be a beaut."

Bydgos glanced into his rearview mirror, saw a flickering of headlights. That would be the medical convoy. He turned, watching Burke swinging the red blinker. The lights grew brighter, and then Bydgos made out the shapes of the trucks. They were slowing down.

The lead truck squealed to a halt as Burke ran up to the cab. He climbed to the running board. "We've been ordered to lead you people to Roosevelt Hospital," he told the driver. "A crowd of people panicked and are supposed to be coming out of the city on this road. Stick close behind us, and be alert for any sudden stops."

Burke returned to the police car and climbed in alongside Bydgos. The officer waved his arm for the signal to move and started down the highway, red lights flashing and siren screaming.

The crowd thickened as they approached the city. They crossed the city line, slowing intermittently as people scattered before their approaching car and the following trucks. "Still okay," Burke said to Bydgos. "If it doesn't get any worse than this, we'll make it all right."

Another mile. The headlights stabbed through the darkness, illuminating the highway for hundreds of feet.

Bydgos swore suddenly. His foot slammed down on the brake pedal, then released again as he remembered the trucks rolling behind him. He thrust his hand outside the car, signaling the convoy to stop.

"Look at that, will you?" he muttered. The highway ahead of the car was black with people, half-running, walking, stumbling. His foot hit the floor button and with the siren screaming, he eased the car slowly forward, rolling through the mob which moved aside with reluctance. The people stared at them, uncomprehending, mindful of their escape from dreaded radiation. The police car and its convoy moved forward another hundred feet, then was forced to another halt.

Burke flung open the car door, shouting to the crowd to move aside. It was useless. Bydgos blasted on the horn and siren, but with little effect. He started forward with the car, actually pushing people aside with the bumper and the fenders. Those immediately forward of the car were pushed, lurching off balance, screaming and shouting at the two officers.

Burke called zone headquarters. "... go ahead, Burke, this is Antonelli."

"We're just inside the city line, Tony," Burke told him. "The crowd is pouring onto the highway from the fields. Can't move unless we just bull our way through. Is there any chance of help coming along?"

Antonelli's voice crackled metallically. "They won't be able to get to your area for a while. Medical has been asking about their convoy. Look, Ed, a lot of people are going to die unless that blood gets here. Bring the convoy thru. Do whatever you have to. That's all."

"Well, Ed," Bydgos said, "you heard the man."

Burke drew his revolver, and fired two shots into the air. The sharp cracks of the gun cut into the senses of the mob; abruptly they stopped their flight, muttering, staring at the police officer. "Get off the road!" Burke shouted. "Let these trucks through! They're carrying blood and medical supplies! Get off the road so they can get through! Move!"

Murmurs ran through the group. Some people tried to push through the jam, but the sea of faces was unmoving.

"Can't you understand me?" Burke roared. "Get off the road!" Unresponding to the policeman's pleas, the mob began to push forward again, continuing to block the highway. Anger welled in Burke's brain. Those who had succumbed to fear for their own safety were denying life to suffering people within Harrington.

The anger grew, swelled to terrifying proportions. Burke was working himself into a rage, but he no longer cared.

Maybe a bullet into one or a couple of them would give them something new to worry about. (To Be Continued)

No. It's just a rope... at the breaking point. But, frankly, it's a good illustration of how a man feels when his nerves are "worn to a frazzle."

The Church has never claimed that religion is a cure for frazzled nerves. But a man's Christian faith does this for him:

It shows him a Purpose in life more important than mere existence. It shows him a Power more effective than his own strength. It shows him a Future more rewarding than selfish gain. And it gives him courage more lasting than the sheer force of his human will.

With these spiritual resources, founded in the certainty that God understands and helps, a man never reaches "the breaking point." For when his human reserve is exhausted... he has only begun to tap the vast reservoir of Divine Strength.

THE CHURCH OF YOUR CHOICE CAN SHOW YOU THE WAY!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For the sake of his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

'Hear, O Israel'

Deuteronomy 6:1-9; 20:25
By Dr. Archie E. Brown

GOLDEN TEXT: "How much better it is to get wisdom than gold! and to get understanding rather to be chosen than silver!" (Proverbs 16:16)

INTRODUCTION: Wisdom is needed everywhere we turn. It is needed in the business world. It is needed in the social world. In our homes, churches and schools. Wisdom is more than knowledge. Actually it is the ability to use knowledge. We have all seen people who were wise in "book-learning," but who showed little wisdom in dealing with problems of life.

This is a world of order. God planned, and has a plan, for everything. Whenever man had disobeyed God and gone against His planned order of things, trouble has resulted. Israel was given the Law of God. When they obeyed it they prospered and were blessed. When they disobeyed it, they failed and were punished. The very same is true today.

I "THESE COMMANDMENTS" (V. 1-3)

"These are the commandments, the statutes and the judgments, which the Lord, your God, commanded to teach you, that ye might do them in the land whither ye go to possess it." The Ten Commandments, and the other laws of instruction, were laid down by God for the benefit of man. Some folks seem to think that God made the laws for his own benefit. If every person would obey the laws of God, they would be blessed far beyond their fondest dreams, and this would be a pleasant world in which to live.

II LOVE WITH ALL YOUR HEART (V. 4-5)

What a mighty word is the word love. The modern world has cheapened it. To the great masses of people today love is pictured as something that comes out of Hollywood, or as something that is done in dark places. Oh! how different is real love. So many folks go all the way through life and never know true love.

Additional Church Notes
On Page Six

Real love is that which held Israel together. It started with love for God and for family. Their homes were held together by love. How tragic it is today to see some homes held together by civil law, or simply because there are children involved. How much better to see homes held together by love!

We are commanded to "love God with all our heart, soul and might." This means that we are to love Him supremely. This means that we are to love God more than any person or any material possession.

III TEACH THE LAW (V. 6-9)

Herein lies the secret of success or failure in home and nation. We are commanded to teach the laws of God in our homes and church schools. Yes, when children are taught the laws of God they stand much better chance of becoming good, solid Christian citizens. They are better prepared to take their places in life. When a person honestly honors and obeys God, he wants to teach His commandments diligently to others.

CONCLUSION (V. 20-25) Here we see the real reason why the people of Israel obeyed God. We have pictured here a child coming to his parent asking the reason for the teaching of God's commandments. He is taken back in history to the night the death angel saw the blood of the sacrificial lamb on the houses, he passed over. Where no blood was found, the first born died. To this very day the Jewish people teach their children the laws of God and remind them of this incident. Should Christians, saved by the blood of the Lamb, do less?

Nasser Willing For Top Talks

Written For The United Press
CAIRO (U.P.) — President Gamal Abdel Nasser said Friday he would be willing to go to Geneva to meet British Prime Minister Anthony Eden and French Premier Guy Mollet if he thought the talks would achieve a peaceful settlement of the Suez Canal dispute.

Nasser indicated, in an interview with this correspondent at Tahrir Palace, that he would negotiate personally only with the chiefs of state of Britain and France, and not with their foreign ministers.

He revealed that Egyptian-sponsored talks on Suez would be held in Geneva during the week of Oct. 28, although the exact date has not yet been set.

Nasser said Egypt is prepared to present certain proposals on canal tolls at the projected meeting, but he firmly rejected any idea of dealing solely with the Suez Canal users association set up by the West to collect canal tolls.

American Pilots

Ready to Quit

Suez Canal Jobs

CAIRO, Egypt (U.P.) — Some of the 17 American pilots who flew here recently to work for Egypt's Suez Canal authority are ready to pack their bags and go home because of pay disputes, their spokesman said today.

He said he was promised that his earnings during the first 18 months would be tax-free to avoid double taxation in the United States, but when he received his first partial pay a large amount was taken out for Egyptian income tax.

"This means I shall be paying taxes both here and in the states," Holland complained.

Eagles Defeat West Frankfort, 13-12, For Sixth Win to Remain Unbeaten

Feuquay Brothers Score Touchdowns For Eldorado

Eldorado's Eagles edged the stubborn West Frankfort Red Birds, 13-12, last night for their sixth straight victory and to remain undefeated for the season's play. The game was played on the Eldorado field.

Both of Eldorado's touchdowns were scored by the Feuquay brothers, Lester scoring the first TD in the first quarter and Marty scoring the second in the second period on a 2-yard plunge following good gains in bringing the ball down the field. Lester scored the winning point following his brother's second-half touchdown.

Ronnie Bennett opened the game's scoring in the first quarter with a 42-yard touchdown run. West Frankfort's other touchdown came early in the fourth quarter on a quarterback sneak by Bruce Link.

West Frankfort was threatening again near the close of the game but the Eagles staved off the scoring threat by intercepting a Red Bird pass on the five-yard line. Eldorado was forced to punt and again West Frankfort had the ball but fumbled. Eldorado then ran out the clock as the game ended.

In gaining their six victories the Eagles have defeated Anna, McLeansboro, Harrisburg, Christopher and Carmi. Two of the victories have been at the expense of South Seven conference teams, Harrisburg first and West Frankfort last night.

The Red Birds now have a record of two ties, three losses and one victory for the season's play so far.

Next Friday night the Eagles will be host to the Cairo Trojans. Cairo, which lost last night to Benton, 26-20, have a season's record of five victories and one loss.

Officials last night were Stille, Harrisburg, referee; Henley, Cartersville, umpire; and Baker, Cartersville, head linesman.

Centralia Wallops Salem, 53-0; Champaign Maintains Perfect Record in 34-0 Win

Centralia walloped previously undefeated Salem 53-0 Friday night, while Champaign, Galesburg, Hinsdale, Tuscola, Rock Island Alleman, Effingham and Elgin all maintained their perfect records.

Mendota absorbed its first loss, 28-21, at the hands of Rock Falls. Chenoa handed El Paso its first defeat 26-7, and Springfield Cathedral had its perfect record marred in a 6-6 tie with Pana in other big games on the prep football card.

Centralia, pre-season favorite for the South Seven title, and Salem, leader in the North Egypt loop, both went into their game undefeated but tied once.

Champaign pounded Bloomington 34-0 for its sixth straight victory and its second in Big Twelve play and ran its season offensive total to 272 points compared to only six for the opposition.

Galesburg, which has established itself as one of the top teams in the state, also notched Win No. 6 by slamming Kewanee 59-13.

Hinsdale took charge in the West Suburban Conference race by smashing previously unbeaten Des Plaines Maine 27-0.

Elgin racked up its sixth straight foe, Aurora West, 26-14, to continue the heavy favorite for a second straight Big Eight championship.

Tuscola dumped its closest contender in the Okaw Valley Conference and added its sixth victory of the season by polishing off Villa Grove 14-6.

Effingham remained undefeated and in command of the Eastern Illinois race by trouncing St. Elmo 41-0, and Rock Island Alleman added new shine to its perfect record by demolishing Ottawa Marquette, 47-0.

In other games, Marion edged Mount Vernon 14-12 to bounce the Rams out of a three-way tie with Benton and Centralia for the South Seven lead. Benton racked up Cairo 26-20 in a non-conference fray.

Shelbyville ended Litchfield's string of Midstate Conference victories at three by jolting the Panthers 19-6.

In Peoria City competition, Woodruff manhandled Limestone 37-6, and Spalding tied Manual 13-13.

In the Big Twelve Conference, Urbana tied Decatur 20-20, and Pekin edged Streator 13-12.

Among the high scores rolled up, De Kalb whipped Rochelle 53-7, Auburn pounded Girard 51-0, and Washington slammed Dunlap 47-0.

Mount Carmel and Carmi battled to a 7-7 tie and Charleston beat Paris 47-12.

Senators to Keep Club in Nation's Capital

WASHINGTON (AP)—A touch of sentiment and the weight of President Eisenhower's wishes combined today to keep the nation's capital on the major league baseball map.

The Washington Senators will be back at the old stand next year—but with new hope that they'll show improvement at the gate as well as in the American League standings.

Club President Calvin Griffith made that clear Friday when he announced the club's five man board of directors "are very happy to be in Washington and hope we will stay here the rest of our lives."

Griffith, jubilant over the outcome of the show-down meeting, said the board had attractive offers from Los Angeles, Minneapolis, San Francisco and Louisville but added, "the most attractive was from Washington."

Actually, all the evidence indicated that the Senators had walked to the brink of a shift and then backed away in deference to the memory Clark Griffith and the announced wish of Mr. Eisenhower.

Local Players Rally to Support of Calufetti; Do Not Blame Coach

Want Public to Know Team Under Par; Coaching All Right

Harrisburg Bull Dog football players, led by Captain Jim Cummins and other senior members, last night rallied in support of their coach, Lawrence Calufetti, following the 35 to 7 drubbing the locals took from the Tigers at Herrin.

Immediately following the game a team manager, Larry Hibbs, came out of the dressing room where the players had gone and said to a Daily Register reporter: "Some of the seniors want to see you inside; it's private. See Jim Cummins or Lou Williams or John Zeigler."

Inside, a group of seniors and juniors gathered around Captain Cummins, who said:

"We've been hearing lots of reports that some people uptown are dissatisfied with the way Cal is running the team and if you can do it we'd like for you to put it in the paper that we're one hundred per cent behind him."

Not Coach's Fault

"We know we're not up to par," Lou Williams, guard, who played an outstanding game at Herrin, declared, "but we want the public to know it's not our coach's fault."

"I don't believe there is a better football coach in southern Illinois," continued Cummins. "He is working hard with us but we just can't get to winning. One reason, of course, is that we lost a lot of first liners last year and we don't have the size and experience. And we don't have any reserve strength at all."

"Just wait 'til next year," said end Bud Logan, a junior. "We'll mow some of these teams down." The locals have not won a game this year.

"We can't have a top team every year," continued Cummins. "I believe this is the first losing season Cal's ever had. I hear criticism about not using the T-formation, but tonight we used it about half the time and it didn't work a bit better than the single-wing."

Gualdoni a One-Man Show

These players kept their voices low in a remote corner of the dressing room while some continued with their showers, unaware of what was going on. Neither did Calufetti.

"We just want you to know how we feel about Calufetti," Cummins concluded. "It will be all right to put it in the paper, won't it? There wouldn't be anything wrong with it, would there?"

Harrisburg last night played good ball the first quarter and into about five minutes of the second period. At that point Jim Gualdoni, lanky junior speedster, went right through the middle and raced 69 yards for the first Herrin touchdown and the locals were not in the ball game, except for brief spurts, after that.

Gualdoni was a one-man show in the Tiger backfield, making the first four of the five Herrin touchdowns. In the second period he scored again on a 30-yard pass play from Richard Box, and Doug Hindman ran for the extra point to make the count 13-0 at halftime.

In the third quarter Gualdoni raced 23 yards to score and later the count became 21-0 when a bad pass from center was responsible for a two-point safety. Gualdoni went over from the three late in the same period for his fourth tally and Harold Plumlee plunged for the extra point.

Biggs Scores for Locals

The last quarter saw Harrisburg make its only touchdown when Donald Biggs ran for five yards and Herrin made its final touchdown on a 11-yard pass play. Bart McNeil to Plumlee.

Biggs set up his own touchdown. Bill Yates, end, caught a jump pass over the line and lateraled to Biggs, who raced to his eighth on a good gain for 47 yards. Three plays later he went over and Ronnie Vick's place kick for extra point was good.

Statistics show Harrisburg made 6 first downs, Herrin 10; Harrisburg made 132 yards from scrimmage, Herrin 345; Harrisburg made 80 yards rushing and 52 passing, Herrin 284 rushing and 61 passing; Harrisburg completed two out of ten passes and had two intercepted, Herrin four out of seven and had none intercepted. Harrisburg penalties totalled 15 yards, Herrin's 40.

FARMING IN ILLINOIS:

Economists See Higher Hog Prices Next Year

By WARREN STROTHER
United Press Staff Correspondent

Hog prices are likely to improve next year, largely because growers are apt to cut down on breeding sows for spring farrowings and hence reduce pig production.

That's the studied opinion of University of Illinois farm economists, who point out that the hog-corn ratio—the number of bushels of corn equal in value to 100 pounds of on-the-hoof hog—has not been favorable for pork producers. Discouraged hog growers will leave the market.

At mid-September the ratio was 9.8, compared to 12.6 at the same time last year.

Taxes on farm land in Illinois almost tripled in the decade ended in 1955, tax studies show. The average tax per acre jumped from $1.10 to $2.97 during the 10-year period, and property tax on farm property like livestock, grain and farm equipment has climbed proportionally.

The University of Illinois estimated Illinois farmers total about 8 per cent of the state's population and pay about a third of the personal property taxes collected.

Here's a tip for the farm wife from the safety experts: Put that farmer in a happy frame of mind at breakfast, and you may save his arm, or even his life.

Particularly in the corn picking season, when the fellow with a grouch doesn't have much patience and may be prone to take foolish chances with his machinery.

So serve a good breakfast and cheer him up. The happy individual is apt to be more cautious and careful.

Mid-morning and mid-afternoon lunch breaks for busy cornpickers will help, too, the safety experts report. Studies of many corn picker accidents indicate they reach a peak about 10 a. m. and again at 4 p. m., when the routine of the job may dull a worker's caution.

Fall is the time to watch for fowl cholera, one of the most persistent poultry disease to plague Illinois farmers.

The acute form of the disease can result in high losses in a flock very quickly. The chronic disease can often go unrecognized, but resulting in low and persistent death losses.

Combs on chickens usually become dark, and the birds appear droopy from high fever. If the symptoms appear it's wise to get an accurate diagnosis.

Antibiotics and other preparations may reduce death losses, but they won't destroy the infection. Veterinarians suggest marketing of infected flocks at the end of their laying season, then thoroughly clean and disinfect laying houses before new birds are installed.

Paint Galvanized Roofs Before They Break Down

Keep galvanized roofs in good condition indefinitely by painting when rust spots first appear.

Don Jedge, extension agricultural engineer at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, says that if you wait until much rust shows through you'll have a big job taking off the loose rust and scale with a stiff brush before you can paint.

Paint on new galvanized roofing is only for decoration, Jedge says. It will not help to protect the zinc coating on the roof very much. Life of the original coating will vary with its thickness.

Southern Illinois farmers are working at full speed harvesting corn and soybeans. Yields are bountiful in most instances and grain quality is good.

In storing such grain on the farm, it is important that the farmer take precautions for protecting and maintaining quality. Preventing insect infestation or other contamination is the best policy.

Before putting in new crop grains, thoroughly clean the storage bins, removing waste grain from cracks, corners, and floor—outside as well as inside. Empty bins which are insect infested should be sprayed with a disinfectant, such as 2.5 percent DDT or methoxychlor. A home mixed spray composed of dormant tree spray oil, lye and water will do well, too. For ten gallons of mixture use one gallon of the spray oil, three ounces of lye, and nine gallons of water. One gallon will cover 50 square feet of bin surface.

Of course, there is no point in all this effort if dirty grain is to be stored in a clean bin. Be sure the grain is cleaned of dirt, chaff, cobs and other foreign material which may contain insects and eggs. Not only should the bins be clean, but also the harvesting machinery and the wagons used for hauling the grain. The first two or three bushels of grain that pass through the combine or sheller are best used for livestock feed instead of storage.

Grain moisture content also must be right. Unless unusually clean and not to be stored for longer than a year, shelled corn—as well as wheat, oats and barley—should not have moisture content exceeding 13 percent. Clean, dry grain is not so attractive to insects nor as favorable to their propagation as is dirty or high moisture grain.

Grain intended for use as food may be treated with certain protective powders which are spread over the surface of a load of grain or applied to the stream of grain as it is elevated into the bin.

Such powders, properly applied, may effectively protect the grain for six to nine months. If the temperature or moisture content is high, the protective powders may be less effective. They do little good if the grain already is infested.

Fumigating is a good procedure for controlling insect infestation in stored grain. One good ready-mixed fumigant is a three to one mixture of ethylene dichloride and carbon tetrachloride. There are others.

Bins should be tightly lined with heavy building paper or sheet metal to hold in the fumigant. Grain stored in steel bins usually requires only about half as much fumigant as that stored in wooden bins. Level the grain so that six to eight inches of the side wall extends above the grain surface to aid penetration by the fumigant which otherwise might "roll" over the sides of the bin.

Six to eight gallons, applied with a bucket-type or small tank spray, have come with metallic zinc paint for the repainting job. Aluminum paint doesn't get along well with rust, the specialist points out. Iron oxide paint is better than aluminum paint, but not so long-lasting as zinc.

Christmas Trees Make a Good Crop for Farms

Christmas trees have become an important new farm crop in the north-central and northeastern United States within the past 10 years.

For many years farmers have been marketing spruce and balsam trees that have sprung up naturally in cutover woodlands and lightly grazed pastures, but the business of planting and growing Christmas trees as a crop is a relatively new business, says J. N. Spaeth, head of the department of forestry at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture.

No figures are available on the number of Illinois farmers getting into the business, but the names of several are known who have ordered 20,000 or more trees. Many have ordered Scotch pine from the state nurseries, and this species is recommended only for Christmas trees. Many others have planted this and other species from both state and private nurseries.

Eight midwestern states are now cooperating in a study of the Christmas tree situation, Spaeth reports. The study will try to find out how many trees are grown, how many are used and what kinds and sizes people prefer so that the nurseries can grow the right stock for farm planting.

Raising high-quality Christmas trees is something of an art, Spaeth believes. For instance, pruning in Pennsylvania has increased average tree value 50 to 75 cents at a cost of about 15 cents. Some of the best trees grow on the poorer land with least labor because they grow more slowly and the foliage is naturally more dense. But they still need some shaping to make them symmetrical.

The Tuberculosis Tax law will not raise taxes in Saline county. It is a continuation of a tax county residents voted several years ago.

Randox has proved in trials to be effective for chemical control of giant foxtail, says a University of Illinois weed control specialist.

Liquid fertilizers are cheap, easy and fast to apply.
